for Lack of Funds.

As Now.

Columbia Heights Citizens' Association Plans to Keep Mount Pleasant Grounds Open.

Association Needs $5,000.

Unless substantial assistance is received from public-spirited citizens who are interested in the playground movement, all of the playgrounds in the District, with the possible exception of the playground at Columbia road and Fourteenth street, will be closed for the year on Saturday, November 12. The Columbia Heights Citizens' Association has taken steps to raise $500, the amount needed to maintain the Mount Pleasant playground until the end of the fiscal year, June 30.

Five thousand dollars is needed by the Playground Association to complete its budget to July 1, 1911, when it is hoped the District Com-missioners, under authority of Congress, will assume control of the playgrounds, with ample funds provided for their maintenance. Since the association issued its first appeal yesterday a total of $374 has been raised. Checks should be made payable to John B. Sleman, treasurer, and sent to Room 515, Metropolitan Bank building.

The officers of the Washington Playground Association say they were much encouraged yesterday when a committee from the Columbia Heights Citizens' Association reported that the association had appropriated $50 and appointed a committee to raise $450 additional, in order that the Mount Pleasant playground might be kept open during the winter months. Dr. Benjamin F. Gibbs, chairman of the subcommittee of the Columbia Heights Citizens' Association, reported that $55 had already been subscribed, and he was confident that the balance would be raised before Saturday, November 12. The Mount Pleasant playground is the latest one to be equipped in Washington The attendance frequently is as high as 1,000 a day. The officers of the Playground Association, however, are very anxious that sufficient funds may be secured, so that the playgrounds in other sections of the city may also be kept

According to the board of directors all of the playgrounds would be closed Saturday, November 12. unless a substantial sum is received through contributions. The people of Mount Pleas-sant have rallied to the support of the children of the neighborhood, and it is hoped that at least this playground will be kept open.

$5,000 Needed.

The money appropriated by Congress and the comparatively small amount contributed was barely suncient for maintenance and equipment during the summer months. If the playgrounds are to be kept open during this month and April, May and June next, $5,000 must be raised. Contrary to the general belief, the Playground Association's share of the net proceeds of the horse show, it is reported, will probably not amount to more than two or three hundred dollars.

lipped as at present. The attendance has never been so la.ge, even during the summer months. During the week ended October 15 the total attendance was 33,358, or a daily average of 5,558. All of the children are vitally interested to Many of the r parents and friends have already contributed, and the officers of the Playground Association hope that sublic-spirited citizens will be sufficiently already contributed, and the officers of the Plays ound Association hope that public-spirited citizens will be sufficiently interested to make the closing of the playgrounds unnecessary.

Protest against the District health office for its activity in giving widespread publicity to the mortality statistics of Washington, particularly those relating to epidemics of typhoid and infant mortality, and against the press for making this information conspicuous was voiced by Arthur C. Moses at a meeting of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon. Mr. Moses declared that this practice was keeping many persons and thousands of dollars away from the National Capital persons who would have come to Washington and put their children at school here have been kept away. He spoke, too, of the alleged typhoid epidemics, declaring them to be much exaggerated.

The board of directors adopted a resolution providing for the appointment of a committee representing the chamber to call upon the health officer and also upon the newspapers to formally protest against this practice.

The board of directors passed a resolution heartily indersing the movement to raise funds to keep the public play-grounds open during November and the open season of the winter. Mr. Moses, vice president of the Playgrounds Association, said that the grounds are being used by thousands of children daily, and that in October the average attendance had been higher than ever before. The average each day during the last week in that month had been 5,558 for all the playgrounds. He said that an additional $5,000 would be needed.

He said the movement had originated in the private school committee of the Board of Trade, and he asked that a committee be appointed to act with the other trade body to further the plan. Prof. Ramsay said that Washington was becoming more and more the private school center of this country; that scores of girls came to the schools here now from South America, Canada and Mexico. > SENTENCE FOR GREGORY IN TRADING STAMP CASE Imposition of Penalty Monday to Be Followed by Habeas Corpus Proceedings, by Agreement.

A sentence of three months in the workhouse, in default of a one-hundred-dollar fine, will be imposed on Walter Gregory, representative of the Sperry & Hutchinson Company, one of the two defendants in "the trading stamp cases," by Judge Mullowny, in the Police Court next Monday morning, to be followed by an effort to have the defendant released on habeas corpus procedings.

This is in accord with an agreement reached at a conference today between Corporation Counsel Thomas and attorneys for both the Sperry & Hutchinson Company and the Economy Co-operative Society in the offices of Judge Mullowny. In the case of William B. Kraft, representative of the Economy Co-operative Society, the second defendant, it is announced no penalty will be imposed until the first case is disposed of. It is intended to carry the Gregory case to the United States spreme Court, where the conviction will be attacked on the ground that the police court has no jurisdiction, and that the law under which the two defendants are charged is unconstitutional.

PUBLIC HELP SOUGHT DAMAGE TO THE CITY "PAULINE WAYNE," THE PRESIDENT'S NEW COW TAFT FOR MEI

Now, Pauline made a sensation for White House employes last night. It was Pauline left Marinette, Wis., two days son, Admiral R. D. Evans, C. C. Glover, reached Pittsburg yesterday morning Torrey was told that the cow would continue

At that hour Torrey got off the train and met three or four White House stablemen, fully prepared to aid in taking the famous animal to her new quarters. Photographers waited around to get picget here early this morning. She did. Torrey saw that she was properly unloaded and then gave some instructions to John Scott, the old colored stableman on the grass until he had curried and sponged her of every dirt spot. He has assigned her to a great, roomy box stall covered with clean straw.

"Jim" Torrey would not go up to the White House to shake hands with the President until he had shaved and "spruced" up for the ordeal. He knows all about cows, but he is shy on Presidents. He told the President that Pauline was a corker, and then he handed the chief executive the registration papers animal. Torrey felt at home after a few minutes with the President, who hailed him as a relative of the Taft family. Torrey is a distant cousin of "Aunt" Delia Torrey, the President's favorite aunt.

Pauline Supplants Mooley.

Pauline Wayne takes the place of Mooley, the White House Jersey that killed herself last summer by eating too much oats. Mooley was staked out during the day out and wended her way to the oats bin. She had never been instructed by experts that oats are for horses, and she ate and ate. When they called a veterinarian it was too late.

"Uncle" Ike Stephenson sympathized with the President in the loss of the Jersey milker, and promised to send a thoroughbred Holstein in her place. Pauline is a big white cow, with black spots dotting her exterior.

Grand total.....$10,000

Stories may be entered in this competition at any time prior to June 1, 1911. No more than three stories for the competition may be entered by any one writer; but this will bar no one from offering other fiction at any time.

For the fifty-two or more prize competition stories to be printed during the year, and for as many others as prove desirable for future publication, we shall pay as soon as they are accepted. All stories that are not put on the accepted list will be re-turned promptly, as fast as they can be passed upon. In this manner authors will be paid for their work promptly, and will be spared the long and tedious delays that have attended all other story competi-

Stories may be of any length up to 5,000 words, and of any kind, preferably modern. They must be clean. May they be read aloud in the average family circle? That is the test to which all our Sunday Magazine fiction must respond.

Competitors must be prepared on receiving payment for accepted stories to sign a release to the Associated Sunday Magazines, Incorporated, for all rights and copyright.

Authors will retain dramatic rights, and after competition is closed book rights will be released to them on request without charge.

Stories written for and offered in this competi-tion shall be plainly marked on the first page of the manuscript, "Offered in 1911 Story Competition," and directly beneath this the author's name, address and price at which the story is offered. If the author adopts a pen name, that also should be plainly stated. Every competitor is cautioned to retain a copy of his typewritten manuscript.

The prizes will be awarded by a committee composed of the representatives of each of the ten following newspapers, by whom the Associated Sunday Magazine is issued each week co-operatively and simultaneously as part of the Sunday editions:

Chicago Record-Herald, St. Louis Republic, Philadelphia Press, Pittsburgh Post, New York Tribune, Boston Post. Washington Star, . Minneapolis Journal, Rocky Mountain News, Buffalo Courier.

The combined circulation is approximately f.150,000 copies each week. An unprecedented opportunity to reach the fiction readers of America is thus afforded authors.

The editorial offices are at No. 52 East 19th Street, New York City, to which all manuscripts should be addressed.
